Symetrics Industries Receives Governor's Business Diversification Award

MELBOURNE, FL (October 1, 2010) – Symetrics Industries is pleased to announce their acceptance of the 2010 Governor's Business Diversification Award at the Governor's Club in Tallahassee, Florida. In Tallahassee to accept the award were Symetrics' Ken Campbell, Director of Contracts, and Courtney Culver, Manager of Contracts and Compliance. The awards were presented during Florida's annual Industry Appreciation Week, which is the third week of September, and honor those companies that have made an outstanding contribution to Florida's economy. The Governor's Award is sponsored by Enterprise Florida, Inc. which is a partnership between Florida's business leaders and government leaders and serves as the principal economic development organization for the state of Florida.

Winners of the award were a respected group of eighteen Florida companies representing twelve counties distinguished for exceptional contributions they made last year toward statewide economic diversification. The award recognizes successful job creation along with distinctive community involvement and investment efforts, many of which fall into industries that Florida targets for economic diversification and high-wage job growth. Eighty-five companies were in competition for this year's award.

“We are proud to receive this award and are pleased that Symetrics Industries has had an outstanding effect on our state and local economy not only through financial growth creating jobs, but also through community responsibility efforts,” said Mitch Garner, President of Symetrics Industries.

Symetrics won in the Export Excellence category for a Major Market in competition amongst many deserving Florida businesses. The industry categories for annual award consideration were Business Expansion, Entrepreneurship, Export Excellence, Innovation, Newcomer and Green to Gold.

Symetrics specializes in the design, manufacture, and test of electronic systems for military applications that integrate into airborne or ground platforms. Their endurance and adaptability as a company has not only increased their market share in the defense arena, but also has increased their revenues substantially. Key success factors include Symetrics’ commitment to quality manufacturing and dedication to their employees while exemplifying excellence throughout their local and global communities. Symetrics has been built on a solid foundation with cornerstones of leadership that have prepared them to impact the defense world by supporting and protecting our military.
